SURGEON: BARBARA L SCHULZ, MD DOS: 08/21/2007

PREOPERATIVE DIAGNOSES:

1. Persistent right pelvic pain.
2. Hemorrhagic 4-cm right ovarian cyst on ultrasound.
3. Desires surgery.

POSTOPERATIVE DIAGNOSES:

1. Persistent right pelvic pain.
2. Right hemorrhagic ovarian cyst.
3. Cul-de-sac endometriosis--minimal.

PROCEDURES DONE:

1. Pelviscopy.
2. Right ovarian cystectomy.
3. Fulguration of cul-de-sac endometriosis.

SURGEON:

Barbara L. Schulz, M.D.

ASSISTANT:

Sanders.

ANESTHESIA:

General with ET tube.

PROCEDURE IN DETAIL:

The patient was brought to the operating room and administered appropriate general anesthesia. She was placed in lithotomy position in Allen stirrups and prepped and draped in the usual manner. Bimanual examination revealed some fullness on the right. No other pelvic masses. A bivalve speculum was placed. The anterior lip of the cervix was grasped with a single tooth tenaculum. A Hulka clip was then inserted. The single tooth tenaculum and bivalve speculum were removed. Gloves were changed. A 1-cm incision was made in the umbilicus. A Veress needle was tested for patency, manually inserted into the peritoneal cavity by evidence of free flow of water and an opening pressure of 7. Three L of carbon dioxide gas was allowed to insufflate the abdomen. The Veress needle was removed. The 5-mm umbilical trocar was manually pushed in the peritoneal cavity. It was noted that we were inside.

OPERATIVE REPORT

It was connected to a light source and gas source. A 1 cm incision was made suprapubically. Under direct vision, a 5-mm trocar was manually pushed in the peritoneal cavity. A probe was placed. Examination of the pelvic contents revealed a normal uterus, normal left tube and ovary. Right ovary was 2-3 times the size of the left ovary with an approximately 3-4 cm cyst to it. The tube was normal. The anterior cul-de-sac was normal. The appendix was normal. The posterior cul-de-sac had 2 dots of endometriosis to it. A 1-cm incision was made suprapubically off to the left side. A 5-mm trocar was manually pushed into the peritoneal cavity under direct vision. The right utero-ovarian ligament was held on traction with an atraumatic grasper and using hot scissors, the right ovarian cyst was cut into. There was noted to be old blood present. Using a Maryland the blood was picked out of the ovary and the cyst wall was picked off, connecting the Maryland to cautery. Bleeders were cauterized. We irrigated and suctioned several times. Hemostasis had been well achieved. Next, in the cul-de-sac we lightly cauterized the 2 spots of endometriosis with the bowel far out of the way. As the patient was placed in Trendelenburg ~~and was probed~~, the bowel was placed far out of the way. We again irrigated and suctioned. Hemostasis had been well achieved. We allowed the air to escape and hemostasis had still been achieved. We had removed the instruments. All the gas was allowed to escape through the trocar sleeve. The trocar sleeves were then removed. The incisions were infiltrated with 0.50% Marcaine with epinephrine. The incisions were then closed with skin glue. The estimated blood loss was less than 20 mL. The urine was clear. The patient tolerated the procedure well. The Foley catheter was removed as well as the Hulka clip. Sponge, instrument, needle counts were correct. The patient tolerated the procedure well and was taken to the recovery room.

HISTORY/OPER FINDING:

AP SPECIMEN DESCRIPTION:
R ovarian cyst

Diagnosis:

Right ovarian cyst:
Consistent with hemorrhagic corpus luteum.

aa8/22/07,0

Gross Description:

The specimen consists of multiple irregularly shaped fragments of soft tan-pink to tan-yellow tissue, which form an aggregate spherical diameter of 2 cm. TE.
RAM/ml

ml/8/21/2007

Microscopic Description:

Sections show numerous disrupted fragments of blood clot with fragments of ovarian tissue showing focal peripheral areas of luteinized cells. The findings are consistent with a hemorrhagic corpus luteum. The surrounding ovarian stroma shows focal hemosiderin-laden macrophages and mild thermal artifact. No evidence of malignancy is identified.
